Read the passage below carefully and answer questions 51 - 60

Once, there lived a man who loved to eat honey, but he was a lazy man. He did not make his own hives. He often found holes in the trees where the bees lived or stole honey from hives which belonged to other people.

One, day he went to a forest which was a long way from his village. He saw huge trees and soon found one that had a big hole in its trunk. He put his hand inside at once.

He was greedy, lazy and also unlucky. The bees had left the hole a long time ago and a large poisonous snake had made its home there.

The snake bit the man's hand and the man ran home in great pain. His life was in danger for many days, and he could not ask anyone to help him because they would know he had been stealing again.

After a long time, he recovered from the snake bite. He built his own hives and kept his own bees. He took great care to see that no one stole honey from him and he never stole from anybody else again.

51. The man in the story loved to eat honey. Honey is made by _____ Going shopping can be an exciting activity. When you decide to go shopping, you should not get too excited. You should first relax and write down your shopping list. A shopping list will guide you and help you not buy things you do not need. If you do not write a list of things to buy, you may end up with things that are not necessary. This is because of buying without planning. Many people make a mistake of going to the supermarkets shelves without a shopping list and then pick other things that they do not really need. This makes one leave out important things needed or even use up all the money. Most people over-spend, which is not a good shopping habit. After picking items on your list, push the trolley towards the cashier. The cashier will calculate your bill and show you the total amount of money to pay.

If you are a wise shopper, you may get some change because of buying only the items you need. Some people do not balance the amount of money they have with the things to buy. They will fill their trolleys with everything they desire to buy but only come to find out that their money is very little when the bill is calculated. This leaves them very embarrassed. It is good to learn to be a wise shopper. Make sure you have a shopping list to guide you.
