Weaknesses

Some candidates lost marks in this section simply because they did not retain the form of the word that was given. For instance, a candidate who identifies the 'desert' as a region without much rainfall and therefore mainly bare of vegetation except scattered cactus gets a mark. But if they go on to say of 'desert' (to abandon) and construct a sentence "The parent deserted her children", would lose the mark for this part because "deserted" is different from the word. So candidates need to be advised to retain the same form of the word in both cases.
