

Question 3

The illustration below represents a drawing of a human form.

Analyse and describe the pose.

(2 marks)

The question was based on a drawing of the Egyptian human form. The candidates were therefore, required to observe keenly and critically analyse the drawing in relation to the pose. Most candidates performed poorly perhaps due to poor knowledge of the characteristics and styles of representation of the human form. Candidates therefore, need adequate coverage of the study of the human form and the historical aspects of art.

The correct response was: The head and feet are in profile view while the shoulders, torso and eye are in frontal view.

Question 5

State two main features depicted in Kenyan Rock art.

(2 marks)

This question was examining candidates' knowledge on History of Art. The item required the candidates to state two main features depicted in Kenyan Rock Art.

According to the candidates' responses, most of them showed lack of background knowledge of Rock art in general. Most of them failed to state the features depicted in Kenyan Rock Art. This could be attributed to candidates' lack of exposure to historical topics.

The main features depicted in Kenya Rock art include simple geometric patterns, simplified figures or forms which were representational or abstract and sometimes
